Hi!

Here's a little more personal backstory about me...you see it all started with Disney's Pollyana—at a young age, I liked the way it felt watching how a positive attitude could make other people feel good. This led me to a lifetime of observing and studying people. What they went through to create success—most everyone crashed once before they took the LEAP into greatness. If you're good, what does it take to be Great?!

As this fascination grew into a passion, my 26-years in corporate was done (tech sales, consulting). My first book was out and my heart said it was time to inspire successful, talented women. Time to stretch myself and move into my zone of Genius...to make a difference.

My journey passed through a verbally abusive marriage and controlling bosses who attempted to motivate me through intimidation. I knew deep down I deserved better. I was always worried about what I said that would come back to haunt me or get me in trouble. It was stressful!

I never planned on starting a business. It's been a journey, yet now I am so happy my path has led me to support business women who are successful, but want help to reach their "next-level."

There is nothing I love more than sharing my stories—some silly, some deeply inspirational when I speak—especially for women's groups! We will begin to release the tethers that hold you back, and create the courage and FLOW you need to thrive and live a BOLD life.

Unleashing Your V.O.I.C.E.

Value – Observer – I-Sight – Clarity – Energy

IDENTIFYING AND OWNING YOUR VALUE:

What are 3 things that make you uniquely valuable as a female leader?

1: _____

2: _____

3: _____

UNDERSTANDING AND BECOMING A CONSCIOUS OBSERVER:

Do you actively listen, or do you wait anxiously to speak and be heard?

What type(s) of people do you communicate most easily with?

What type(s) of people do you find it most difficult to communicate with?

Based on above, I have room for improvement in the following scenario(s)...

SHIFTING YOUR I-SIGHT:

What is your perception of yourself, as a woman, as a leader, a mom, sister, daughter, wife...?

What messages, beliefs and stories are still driving you—even though they may no longer be true? (more lines next page)

What one shift in belief, attitude or perception would give you the most freedom, power, confidence?

CREATING CLARITY:

What do you want most in your leadership career that you do not have, i.e., what is your next-level success?

What stops you from feeling confident and taking action on this with certainty (truth time)?

What one thing can you begin to shift today to feel like a gifted female leader who deserves next-level success?

MANAGING YOUR ENERGY:

Where do you needlessly expend energy (attempting to control, worrying, being over-analytical, trying to stay one-step ahead of someone else, keeping score)?

What impact does this have on your physical health what dis-ease do you experience?
(Headaches, chronic pain, over-eating, drinking to medicate, overweight, exhaustion, illness)

What energizes you? Work or home...
